DEATH.

On the 11th of March, at the Murray Barracks ANABEL MARY, Infant daughter of Sergeant Lawford Commissariat Staff corps aged 1 year and 9 months.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, MARCH 14, 1865.

Our readers are doubtless aware that the Duke of Brabant, the eldest son of the King of the Belgians, came on from Calcutta per Thunder. We need hardly state that the present King of the Belgians is the oldest crowned head living, that he is the Prince Leopold who married our Princess Charlotte, George the Fourth's daughter, and that he is brother to the late Duchess of Kent, who was the mother of our beloved Queen. Consequently, the Duke of Brabant is first cousin to Queen Victoria.
Rumor has it that an application was sent on before His Royal Highness, for quarters in the Government House, and that it was refused owing to the near approach of the departure of the much lamented Governor Robinson. In any case, we should have supposed that suitable quarters should have been provided for so distinguished a personage, and should have been awaiting his arrival. Instead of that however, the Duke's aid-de-camp had either to go, or to send down, to East Point on Sunday night, in search of quarters, which were of course instantly provided.
A deputation of the Committee of the Ball waited on His Royal Highness yesterday and solicited his attendance, which we believe was promised. We would suggest that some one set to work and gave the Duke a levee. The result would be sure to lead to the offer of some continental order of merit.
There has been some fun between the Ball Committee and General Gay. The General claimed the right on the ground of his rank, to take Lady R. to supper. The Committee gladly acceded on condition that the General would take the chair, their worships being under the idea that the Chairman should be allowed to have the honor sought. The concession was however coupled with the condition that the Chairman should propose the toasts, a list of which was sent. This the General declined, when the intention of Governor R. that Mr. Pollard Q. C. should occupy the chair, was carried out.
There are some other pretty good jokes, but they will keep. We are annoyed at the deception practised to make it appear that the popular voice gave the ovation. There has been as much dodgery and scheming as ever took place at a county election. Mr. Pollard's talent that way is tremendous, and really he must be stopped or he will play the very deuce. He is precious sly and he denies everything in toto.

Piracy at Aberdeen.

On Saturday night at eleven o'clock two large Hakka boats heavily armed and manned ran alongside a fishing boat lying amongst others at Aberdeen and attempted to board her. The crew of the fishing boat however offered considerable resistance, and was subsequently joined by the crews of other boats in the neighbourhood who came to assist in beating off the pirates. Muskets and swords were used by both sides; on the defensive five men and a woman were wounded, and on the side of the pirates one man was killed, and, it is supposed, several wounded.
The pirates were ultimately beaten off, and the reports of the muskets brought the police on the scene who chased the pirate boats for some distance but did not succeed in coming up with them. They fired forty rounds of ball cartridge at them as they retreated. The body of the dead pirate was brought to Victoria and an inquest was held on it yesterday.

NEWS FROM THE NORTH.

THE Nepaul arrived on Sunday morning with the Shanghai mails having left on the morning of the 9th. The following are the leading items of intelligence.

Pashan.

The departure of 1. M. 2nd Belooch regiment will be much regretted by the foreign residents. Apart from the gaiety which the presence of troops always produces, the Beloochees were so well conducted, and the Colonel and Officers were at all times so ready to contribute to the enjoyment of the community, that we question whether a native regiment ever parted away from Shanghai more hearty good wishes. It is not, therefore, surprising that the arrangement made for the conveyance of the men and others to Bombay have excited some interest. Paucity of tonnage advertised for about a fortnight ago for the purpose, seemed amply sufficient to secure the health and well-being of the troops. Two thousand tons or thereabouts would provide adequate breathing space for each man, and would secure immunity from the ill health which attending voyages under tropical latitudes, and in crowded ships. No fear could have been entertained that the Senior Naval Officer's advertisement would remain unanswered. The harbour is crowded by ships on fine as can be found in any part of the world, and even steamers could without difficulty have been taken up for the service. Instead, however, of making the selection on the principle of cheapness, or of fitness for the purpose which it was required to fulfil, tenders were accepted at a higher rate than might readily have been obtained and two ships now lying in the river. In the first place the conjoint tonnage of the Caroline Coventry and Shakspeare amounts to 1,544 tons, or just 456 tons less than at first appeared requisite. Some days after wards Captain Butler of the ship Pohmates, in a very temperate letter, drew the attention of the authorities to the mistake they had made, but, as usually happens, no notice whatsoever was taken of the protest. Preparations are being rapidly made to embark the troops, considerable sums have already been expended, yet we find upon careful enquiry that no medical board ever visited the Caroline Coventry or the Shakspeare before they were selected, and that even since the selection not a single medical officer has gone officially on board either. We can hardly imagine it possible that the troops will be embarked without a favorable report by the principal medical officer as to the capabilities of the transports. Yet it is quite possible, and to us appears most probable, that any medical board appointed to report on the subject will reject at least one of the ships as utterly unfit. For English troops on a voyage the government requires that each man have an allowance of 24 tons measurement or 100 cubic feet. Now, in round numbers, the available accommodation of the Caroline Coventry amounts to 30,720 cubic feet, whilst if English troops were to be transported, would enable her to carry three hundred and seven men. We are not aware of any difference made by regulation in the case of India troops, but the authorities "are a law to themselves," and have accordingly directed that five hundred men, women and children be embarked on board the Caroline Coventry. This will give about 62 cubic feet of air to each man, an amount quite inadequate to preserve health. We do not, however, lay great stress on the unfitness of the Caroline Coventry. She carried home the 31st Regiment, and made a tolerably fair passage. Although, as we have said, she has not sufficient accomodation for so many as are appointed to go on board, she is well ventilated, and possesses every requisite for the transport of a small number of men. Another affair altogether is the Shakspeare. Roughly estimated the available cubical content may be set down at 20,410 feet, which at the English rate would accommodate two hundred. The authorities, however, still guided by some light invisible to us, have directed that three hundred men be embarked, although, while the amount of air thus allowed to each man is only about 60 cubic feet, the Shakspeare, moreover, possesses no means of ventilation. We cannot be surprised at the results which must inevitably follow. Sickness, misery and death will probably be the travelling companions of this fine regiment, and ranks thinned by small pox, scurvy and typhus fever will tell the sad tale of official forgetfulness. What the medical officers are doing we do not know. We should have thought that a sense of duty if, not of simple humanity would have suggested a protest against what may be excusable ignorance on the part of the selectors of the vessels. Professional men need not be reminded of the dire effects of overcrowding, even in the case of the lower animals. Rennie, in his late work on the war in the North, details the results of negligence in this matter in the case of cattle and baggage animals, and common sense points to conclusions the same as those at which he has arrived. The calamities which befel the 5th Regiment must also have been known. Leaving Shanghai in the Gorilla during the month of June, they were delayed for many weeks by calms, and the ship having sprung a leak, the men, although vested by scurvy, were compelled to work constantly at the pumps. Eventually it was found impossible to reach Bombay, and a steamer had to be sent down to tow the Gorilla up the coast. If we endeavor to picture to ourselves the state of the unfortunates on board the Shakspeare whenever a storm may arise while she is within the tropics, we shall find it almost impossible to credit the miseries which will be entailed on them. Cooped up under closed hatches in a reeking atmosphere, and without proper nourishment, the sufferings in the Black Hole of Calcutta will be found faithfully reproduced in the holds of the Shakspeare. Yet we are informed that for the same sum as was agreed on for the ships now chartered, a steamer and a twelve hundred ton sailing vessel could have been secured. The advantages of a quick passage, especially in the case of Hindus, are manifest. Eating nothing but parched grain, the native soldier is rendered more liable to suffer from the depressing influence of confinement and a poisoned atmosphere. Pining for liberty, his imprisonment is aggravated by all the elements of discomfort and disease, and his mental as well as corporeal faculties are at once enfeebled. We trust that before it is too late the very necessary step will be taken of ordering a medical board to assemble and report on the capabilities of the ships and also on the possibility of improving the mean of ventilation.—N. China and Japan Market Report.

Judicial Summary.

UNDER this heading we have nothing worth chronicling for the Mail. The cases in the British Consular Court have been few indeed, not we presume, because there are none on its hearing list, but more probably because the time of H. B. M.'s Consul his be a fully occupied with more important business. We have frequently written on the subject of the appointment of a properly qualified Judge to preside over the Consular Courts in China, and we are now happy to hear, on the most reliable authority, that the British Government have taken this matter into serious consideration, and have decided on carrying it out. The gentleman, whom report says has been nominated to this post, is Sir Edward Hornby, one who from his experience as Chief Justice in the Supreme Consular Court in the Levant, is in every way qualified to be the pioneer of a similar system in China. We understand that Shanghai will be his headquarters, and that he will hear appeals from all the Consular Courts in China and Japan,—and we feel convinced that he will gain far more experience in judicial work during his residence in China, than he can have hitherto met with at Constantinople. Indeed, the business there must have been of a very trifling nature, for the Government to have decided on the step of withdrawing the chief judicial authority. All British subjects will now be anxiously looking for the new "order in council," which this change will render necessary, and it is to be hoped that more competent legal advice may be taken in its framing than was apparently made use of when that famous budget of bungles and inconsistencies, yclept the Queen's order in council of 15th of June, 1863, was cast adrift by the Chief Superintendent of British Trade at Hongkong, to be the bugbear of British subjects and a standing cause of irritation and annoyance to British Consuls in China.
What arrangement will be made to provide the Judge with court house and quarters we have not yet heard, but as it is not improbable that before another couple of months are passed he will be with us, we presume that steps will soon be taken for the accommodation of himself and staff—and now will begin to be felt the paltry policy of selling a few acres of the Consular ground, because forsooth it was considered to be too large for Government purposes at Shanghai. The small amount realized by the sale cannot certainly be any great object to the Home Treasury especially when the loss of prestige to the Consular service is taken into consideration. Two Consular Officers, the Interpreter and 1st Assistant, have to be provided with quarters outside the compound, in a cost of eight or nine hundred pounds a year. Four new houses must ultimately be built at about of some fifty thousand taels. A Foreign Consular flag floats on what was British Government property. A row of Chinese built, ugly-looking and inconvenient for European occupation houses, rakes the small remaining portion of the Consular garden, and quite destroys its privacy. A Court house and residences for Officials will have to be built, or hired at large rentals, and a long train of minor evils, which could be enumerated, and what has been gained in lieu of it all. With the exception of a few pounds in the Government Treasury—Nothing. Could a more short-sighted and foolish scheme have been conceived? We certainly have cause to wonder in whose brain this nice little idea was generated.—Commercial Record.

Soochow.

We hear that the Sung Tsau (松字) camp containing about two thousand men, has been ordered to Shanghai, en route for Amoy, to assist in crushing the rebels in the provinces of Fokien. From what we have already heard of the prowess of the Fukien rebels, we can hardly anticipate any decided success on the part of the Imperialists, more especially when the hardy inhabitants of the sea coast are to be opposed by the degenerate soldiery of the Kouangsi province. As soon as Ting Taotai returns from the provincial city, he will make arrangements for the embarkation and transport of the troops.—Ibid.

Ningpo.

Our correspondent in this port, who has long been silent regarding the progress of the rebels in that province and Fokkien, informs us that, without indicating any decisive success by the latter, native accounts award them the balance of success and speak of great alarm among the mandarins. The Futai of Chekeang even went so far, a few weeks ago, as to order the purchase of two thousand muskets to replace the bamboos with which his "braves" are at present mainly armed. The Taotai of Ningpo executed the commission by buying, for $8 a piece, a number of fire-arms which had, a short time previously, been sold at Shanghai for $3 each, and which, it is almost unnecessary to add, are likely to prove more dangerous to the firers than to the enemy. A grand demonstration will no doubt be made against the latter, as soon as they are served out; a few volleys will be fired at the distance of a mile; several of the pieces will burst, and the owners of the remainder will throw them down in terror and seek safety in flight, leaving them to be picked up by their opponents. It would be well if the Imperialists, while investing in such muskets as those lately bought by the intelligent in question would take measures to prevent the acquisition of far better ones by the rebels. Our correspondent confirms a report which we have heard frequently repeated in Shanghai, that large supplies of arms are shipped hence and from Ningpo to the Fokkien coast, where they are landed without difficulty in small coves above or below Amoy. By the same means and in the same junks and lorchas, a considerable number of foreigners have, we learn, also made their way to the Tsze-wang's head quarters without, apparently, the slightest impediment. The Governor of Hongkong has prohibited the export of arms from that colony during the ensuing year, but although an unexceptionable measure, it will, we fear, not prove very efficacious. It is of course directed against trade in munitions of war with the rebels in Fokkien; but little of the materiel which reaches the Tsze-wang's headquarters starts from Hongkong. Shanghai has attained an unenviable notoriety in this respect, and offers greater facilities for evasion than Hongkong. From hence, we suspect, is dispatched by far the larger proportion of the rifles, powder and percussion caps which aid the Tsze-wang to gain his successes, and inasmuch as there is no urgent necessity for passing future cargos which may arrive from England through the colony, it is unlikely that the Hongkong authorities will have the gratification of making any large seizures. It is difficult, if not impossible, for the foreign authorities to stop these proceedings, or even to ascertain that they are in progress; and the Chinese have not sufficient force at their disposal to seize the contraband men and material after they are clear of the Yang-tsze. The only preventive power lies in the Custom House officials of which, by increased vigilance, may do much to check the present thriving trade. The only chance for the Imperialists lies in that superiority of arms and foreign leadership which enabled them to overthrow the rebel power in Kouangsi and Chekeang. If they allow their opponents to acquire these important advantages while they neglect to avail themselves of such aid, the issue of the campaign in Fokkien can hardly be doubtful. To make matters worse, the outrages committed by the Loan troops on the country people appear to have entirely alienated the sympathies of the latter, which are said now to lie rather in favour of the rebels than of the constituted authorities. Here again it is evident that, if the Tsze-wang carry out the promises of protection made in a proclamation which he has lately issued, inviting the country people to return; while the local officials, on the other hand, fail to restrain their troops from the commission of the excesses we have indicated, the latter will certainly find themselves in the midst of a hostile population, disposed rather to aid and be governed by the rebels, than be oppressed by the agents of their own authorities. It is rumoured that the General commanding the Chekeang forces is not acting with sufficient energy to satisfy the Futai, who has ordered up the Fantai to supersede him.—Ibid.

Hangchow.

A rumour gained ground a few days ago, amongst the Chinese, that this city had been taken by the rebels, and that the Imperialist garrison had joined them. The officials however, have received no confirmatory intelligence, and disbelieve the report. It is acknowledged, however, that there have been disturbances amongst the soldiery and that the gates of the city are kept shut, except for a short period in the morning and evening, to permit the ingress and egress of the country people.—Ibid.

Fukien.

We learn that a visit has been paid by H. M. Consul and a few naval officers to the rebel chief at Chang-chow. They were received very courteously, and assured that neither Amoynor any of the treaty ports would be assailed. There is, however, a fixed determination to conquer the interior of the Fukien province. And in attaining this object the rebels will not, we should imagine, have to dread any foreign interference. Rumours were afloat in Amoy to the effect that Choohbey, a place of considerable importance on the river, about twenty miles from the sea, had fallen, but there is no doubt that the rebels are at least investing it closely, and will obtain possession of it. By capturing this place they hope to establish a trade with foreigners, but for some months even the small business now done at Amoy will be rendered still less satisfactory by the presence of an invading body in the neighbourhood of the port. Tong-san, a fine seaport about sixty miles south of Amoy, will be attacked in a few weeks, and the Chief announces that if he be successful in his attempt, he will immediately throw it open to foreign trade. When the Consul was leaving, an official was sent with him to call on the Senior Naval Officers at Amoy, and confer with him as to the likelihood of securing foreign assistance or foreign neutrality. Trade is, of course, excessively dull. The natives are unwilling to enter the interior so long as there appears to be a chance of danger, and market quotations are consequently unchanged from last advices.
We are glad to learn that H. M. ships Swallow and Dove have lately executed a much needed survey of the harbour at Swatow. Masters of vessels have hitherto complained greatly of the want of a proper chart of that port, and will learn with satisfaction that, in the course of a few months, that prepared under the superintendence of Commander Willes will probably have been lithographed and sent out from England. The vessels named are now at Hongkong, whence they will start almost immediately to resume the survey which, we mentioned on a previous occasion, had been commenced, of the west coast of Formosa and the Pescadore Island.—Ibid.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The past fortnight has been unmoved by political intelligence of any importance. Rumours of an early opening of Hiogo have been floating about, but at present we have no reason to think them well founded. The question of the desirableness of such a measure at the present juncture was discussed in our last week's leader, which we reproduce hereunder.
In social matters, we have had one or two more meetings on the subject of Sanitary Committees and Municipal Council, &c., which however have only at this time left us where we were before.
The Garrison Races came off on Wednesday last. They were well attended, excellently managed, and proved a great success.

On the Opening of Hiogo.

DURING the last fourteen days, which have been almost entirely devoid of political interest, the attention of our commercial community has been directed to a rumour of the probable opening of a new port in Japan.
Although we are not as yet prepared to place much confidence in this, as it is only a repetition of many similar and unfounded reports that have been lately spread through the Settlement, yet as it is a matter of much interest to all those who are concerned in Japanese affairs, we think it our duty to give a resume here of the opinions that we believe generally prevail in the community on the subject.
Strange to say this report has met with anything but an enthusiastic reception amongst our Yokohama merchants. There was a time when the news of the opening of any large port in Japan would have created a great sensation; but that time has now passed. Our merchants have lately had sufficient time and opportunity to form very good opinions of the actual value of Japanese trade. They now know, almost exactly, what the country can produce and what are its wants that have to be supplied; and taking this as a criterion of the utmost that can be done in Japan, they feel satisfied that there are already more hands at work, and more capital on hand than required for this amount of business. As a proof of this we have only to refer to the state of our Silk market during the last few months, when the large Amount of surplus capital caused so great a competition as to drive prices twenty per cent above the highest price ever known before.
Taking as an axiom that the prosperity of any trade consists in the benefits derived from it being in excess of the expenses necessarily incurred in its development, we may say that the question of the advisability of opening a new port in Japan resolves itself into this. Will it increase the trade of Japan sufficiently to make it worth the while of our merchants to establish new houses or open agencies therein?
This is of course for our merchants to answer but taking into consideration the experience they have already had of the capital introduced into the country being more than sufficient for the exigencies of trade, it may be inferred that if the opening of any new port be not preceded by radical reforms in the method of trading at present allowed by the Japanese Government, it will be rather prejudicial to commercial interests than otherwise.
Japan is but a small country. Its resources are not, like those of China, almost unlimited; and the whole amount of business it could do with foreigners, under the present condition of its trade, would amount to but little more than what is now done in the port of Yokohama, Nagasaki and Hakodadi.
If trade were really free, if Japanese merchants were at full liberty to deal with foreigners, there is no doubt that produce would come forward in larger quantities than hitherto, and that our import market would enter into a stage of progressive development which we hope would become considerable; but under our present relations with the Japanese merchant a great many new ports might be opened without sufficiently affecting the total of our Imports and Exports.
The most sanguine of our merchants will scarcely admit that Japan can export more than 30,000 Bales of Silk in the Year, and if this amount be divided between two or three ports instead of remaining the exclusive share of Yokohama whence 25,000 Bales were exported two years ago, the profits accrued from the Silk trade would be reduced by halves or thirds. The same argument applies to other articles of export and import, with the sole exception perhaps of Tea the exportation of which article would possibly be increased by the opening of a new port nearer than Yokohama to the principal Tea growing countries.
But if our trade with Japan is limited (and we are sorry to say it is very limited) the expenses incurred in transacting business seem to be almost without limit. In spite of the continual dulness of business, and consequently a continuous diminishing of profits, expenses have steadily increased and have at last attained to such a pitch that Yokohama, but a few years ago considered to be one of the cheapest places in the East, may now be looked upon as an unhappy rival of Shanghai, which has for some time enjoyed the unenviable reputation of being one of the most expensive places in the world.
The business done in Yokohama at present is so small that our merchants look upon themselves as exceptionally fortunate if they are able to clear their expenses, and we doubt if the most fortunate would be enabled to maintain two establishments if by so doing they did not considerably increase their business.
But we are of opinion that, under the present condition of trade, business cannot be greatly increased, and in order to make the opening of a

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861. In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undermoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

From Hongkong to—

Suez,	$460.
Malta,	510.
Marseilles,	530
Gibraltar,	530
Southampton,	550

Reserved Rates for Single Persons.

Suez,	$929
Malta,	1,020
Marseilles,	1,060
Gibraltar,	1,060
Southampton,	1,100

Reserved Rates for Married Couples.

Suez,	$1,160
Malta,	1,260
Gibraltar,	1,348
Marseilles,	1,348
Southampton,	1,388

The charges for Children are in proportion to the above.

The above rates are exclusive of the amount payable to the Egyptian Transit Administration for conveyance of Passengers through Egypt, viz:—

For First-class Passengers, $32

Children above three and under ten years, half-fare.

By Order of the Managing Directors,

THOS. SUTHERLAND,
Superintendent.

ST. SAVIOURS SCHOOLS,

Pottinger Street corner of Wellington Street

IT is most respectfully intimated to Parents and Guardians, that the New Schools lately erected in Pottinger Street corner of Wellington Street, in a style suitable to the wants of the climate and managed with a view of meeting the peculiar want of this Commercial Colony, are now in full operation.

The system of tuition adopted in these Schools is purely Commercial, Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Geometry, Geography, History, Grammar, Composition, Foreign Languages, Music, and Drawing, are taught by proficient resident Masters. No objection is made to the admission of any Pupil on the score of religion nor will the religious feelings of any pupil be tampered with.

A suite of large Airy Rooms, has been opened in the same Schools for the reception of Boarder Pupils. To Boys leaving home for the first time, the change will be made as easy as can be by the kindness which shall be shown them and by the exclusion of everything materially coercive.

Further particulars may be known by applying to the Principal J. BORGAZZI, who earnestly desires that communications be made before any boarder pupil is sent to the Scools.
